TITLE: Myrtle Everett Bragaw Collection

COLLECTION NUMBER: B2021.008

OVERVIEW OF THE COLLECTION

Dates: 1920s-1950s

Extent: 2 boxes

Language and Scripts: The collection is in English.

Name of creator(s): Myrtle M. Everett Bragaw, Edwin L. Everett, Robert S. Bragaw, Jr., Logemann Brothers, Thomas Foto Shop, Hewitt's Drug Store and Photo Shop,

Administrative/Biographical History:

Myrtle M. Everett Bragaw (nee Glover) was born October 13, 1888. Originally from Kansas City, Missouri, Myrtle and her husband, Edwin L. Everett, moved to Alaska in 1922 and initially worked for the Bureau of Education in Alaska at the school and home in Qaggeyshlat (Tyonek). In 1926, the Everetts bought two commercial fish traps near Qaggeyshlat (Tyonek) at Trading Bay. In 1930, they bought six acres and started the Northern Lights Fur Farm in Anchorage. The farm was located near the present-day intersection of 10th Avenue and P Street, and the Everetts received international recognition for their expertise in the industry. Edwin died in 1939 and Myrtle married Robert S. Bragaw, Jr. in 1950 in Sumner, Pierce County, Washington. Myrtle died August 23, 1973 and is buried in Seattle, Washington.

Scope and Content Description:

The collection consists of 166 black-and-white photographic prints and negatives of the Northern Lights Fur Farm, the fish traps at Trading Bay, Anchorage, and other communities that the Everetts travelled to. Collection also includes documents, letters, newspaper clippings, and publications related to the Northern Lights Fur Farm, fish traps, and correspondence regarding life and businesses of the creators in Anchorage.
